What Small Businesses Need to Know Now: Just Released - Small Business Owner's Guide to CARES Act Programs/New Effective Date for Family Leave Requirements

Just Released – The Small Business Owner's Guide to the CARES Act: We received on Sunday this very practical and helpful Guide for small business owners prepared by the U.S. Senate Committee on Small Business & Entrepreneurship. The Guide provides information about the new small business assistance programs in the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security Act (the "CARES Act") created to address your critical financial needs during these unprecedented times.

- Our Friday update and the attached Guide summarize the current assistance programs and explain how they interact. Practical guidance on the application process is also provided.
- Very Important: Identify the programs you think might be helpful and consider applying ASAP. Our information direct from the SBA is that you should get your application(s) in the queue immediately so that you are assigned a case manager and can discuss your eligibility without unnecessary delay.

Update on Family Leave Requirements – Now Effective April 1, 2020: The latest update from our employment law colleagues regarding the new employee leave requirements is available here.

Stay Current: We are continuing to monitor these fast-moving developments and additional guidance from the SBA is expected this week. You are encouraged and cautioned to seek the most current and relevant information available from reliable sources.

Thank You: We need to do all we can to support our small businesses and the critical role you play in keeping our local economies strong. Hang in there and contact us if we can be of assistance.

We are here to help,

Jim, May, and Shama
